"SARATOGA"

Helstein Thoroughbred and Ris Record.

Something over a year ago the proprietor of the APPEAL imported to this city a thoroughbred Holstein bull, which was calved in Holland, and is a great grandson of Rocker, the most noted Holstein bull that was ever raised in Helland or elsewhere. Rooker was the fountain head of the milk strain of those Holsteins which have made the breed famous in two continents.

As the APPEAL has always been preaching State development, its proprietor, who believes in backing talk by action, landed "Saratoga" in Ormsby county along with "Black Queen," a thoroughbred Holstein cow of the Netherland strain of Holsteins.

It took some time to convince several newspapers in this State that the bull was really an imported thoroughbred, and we concluded to let the performance of the animal convince these doubting Thomases that he came from a family of cattle whose veins coursed blood as royal as ever sped in hoofed animals. If there is any such thing as aristogracy in cattle, he has the right to claim it.

Some of our contemporaries, notably the Virginia Chronicle, have tried to throw mud at that bull, and as he has never paid any attention to these attacks, the APPEAL proposes to say a few words in vindication of his claims and record.

At first, breeders fought shy of Saratoga, as he was a young bull, and they preferred to wait awhile and see what his progency amounted to before investing in his services. There are now a dozen half breed calves in this county, sired by Saratoga, and these animals are in themselves sufficient proof that Saratoga fully sustains all that Powell and Smiths, his original importers, claimed for him, and also vindicate the truth of the statement that Rooker bleed tells wherever found.

Indeed, it would be a poor comentary on stock breeding if a bull descended from the most prepotent bull Holland ever produced, crossing with the prize winners of the World's Exposition at Paris and Amsterdam, did not display some County Hespital yesterday morning of the characteristics of his an-

Robinson. All are heifers, out of cows about three-quarters Durbam. Phillips calf is black and white like her sire, although her dam was roan, and is so square built and straight lined at all points, as only to be distinguished from a thoroughbred blocky, and the level line from her tail to her horns the admiration of every cattle breeder. The owner ever offered to the public. refused $150 for this heifer at six months.

Rebinson's animal is marked with more white, and is an exquisitely moulded creature, with all the outward characteristics of the Aaggie strain. With small, delicate. light forequarters and heavy hips, which gives the "wedge shaped" outline so much sought after by Holstein breeders. Between the merits of these two calves opinions differ, but we can state that the owner of either would not swap for the other's, with $50 to James Shaw, of the Het Springs, also has a balf breed Helstein heifer calf, which $150 could not buy today.

Sheriff-elect Ullrick has a bull calf sired by Saratoga, which, when calved, weighed nearly 100 pounds. Two days afterwards he refused $50 for it. It is a prettily marked aniborn." The other half breed calves sired by Saratoga have mostly been sold and are now scattered about the valley. The writer has no means of ascertaining their present condi tion, except that their purchasers want more of the same kind. These statements are made to show that the importation of these on a buzz saw. Day-before-yester- of the Capitol. Inquire at this of-

to this country by way of improving the stock, and that the bull is all that its importers claimed for it.

The only complaint the owner has to make is the manner in which the State has treated these animals. Last June a thoroughbred calf was dropped on the owner's ranch, upon which such cattle breeders as W.J. Marsh and A. C Cleveland set a value of $300 at one week old.

The Orphans' Home wanted some Holstein stock for the dairy, and this animal was offered for $250 cash. The State declined to purchase, and got a Holstein bull at auction in Sacramento for $125.

We thought at the time that the State would have dene better to within its own borders instead of patronizing a cattle man who brought his animals from Long Island and was worth over a million of dollars. The bull purchased by the Orphans' Home is a registered thoroughbred, and will doubtless prove a paving investment, but the fact is acknowledged by cattle breeders that a superior animal of that breed cannot be purchased plain Aimee; not Aimee that is anywhere for $125.

To send to California for thoroughbred cattle when better cattle can be secured in Nevada is not specially encouraging to cattle breeders.

Probably the Board acted upon its best judgment and for economical motives and we have no further complaint to make, than to mention the fact in the hope that future Boards may be governed by a broader policy. We propose to push these cattle in future years until the time comes when the green meadows of this State will be dotted by their share of black and white cattle.

What She Has Done for the Great American Public.

"What have you done for art?" was what a Post reporter asked of Mile. Aimee, as she lay snugly ensconced in front of a fire, amid a pile of sofa pillows, and with a red flannel fetisch around her neck to exorcize the demon influenza.

"Oh, ask me an easy one, ask me what I have done for America, ask me anything but that. That is what you call a chestnut, eh? Pouf!" replied the exponent of poetic hosiery.

Well, Madame, what have you done for America, for San Francishave encouraged cattle breeding co, for the world, for any place or anything in fact?' suggested the

> "I haf done plenty," replied the suggestive friend of Sardou and Lecoq. "I haf nevaire foel the public. I am a foreigner. I haf an accent-just a leetle one, but still an accent. Indian Depredations.

All persons having clains against the Government for damages sustained by Indian depredations in 1864 or since that time, will find it to their advantage to communicate with C. H. Stoddard at Winnemucca, Nevada. In early days many persons lost horses and cattle, and other property at the hands of the Indians in this State, and Congress will undoubtedly pass an appropriation to remunerate them for their losses. Some of the early settlers in this State, who lost heavily by Indian raids are in their graves, but their heirs are entitled to remuneration, while others are in Califor--A clear head is indicative of nia, Arizona, Oregon and Idaho, and a few remain in the State.

Jaw and Facts

The Carson Union denies that the Democratic papers of this State and the Democratic speakers said during the campaign "a vote for the Republican Legislative nominees is a vote for Stewart." say that every Democratic stump in the State fairly rung with that sentiment, and nearly every emo cratic paper in the State kept it standing in Italies. When a man is forced to downright, brazen lying in support of an argument, his case is too desperate to alarm anybody. We believe that the Union printed the above sentiment and kept it standing; and then it has the jaw to stand up and say we state no facts .- Footlight.
